In March the csaa held its 11th annual regional contest in San Francisco. Directly after the regional contest all entries were sent to Washington, D.C. for judging in the 30th annual national AAA contest.

Koliti received a MERIT CITATION award for the poster, "Look All Ways Before Crossing." The winning poster will be part of the safety poster exhibit which will be on display at the Monterey AAA office during the month of June.

The leaflet ends with advice for the person who thinks he may have a problem with blood pressure. Write to the Central Mission Trails Heart Association, 600 Main St., Salinas - 93901, for a copy without charge of "How Can High Blood Pressure California employers appear to be following the principle of equal employment opportunities in hiring minorities.

Placement figures released by California's Employment Development Department show that during the first eleven months of this fiscal year (July 1973 to May 1974) the Department has found 224,261 jobs for minorities. This is 33,023 more than at the same time last year (191,238).

The Department has established a goal for the current fiscal year of finding approximately 200,000 jobs for minorities. This goal has already been surpassed by more than 10 percent.

The figure of 224,261 minority group placements breaks out to be approximately 127,000 Spanish surnamed, 83,000 Blacks, and 14,000 members of other minority groups.

Minority placements in May 1974 were 22,081 — up from last month's total of 19,218 — but down from 25,375 placements made in May 1973.

The 1973 average unemployment rate of 10.5 percent for minorities, however, remains higher than the 7 percent average for all job seekers.

Congressman Burt L. Talcott announced in Washington that, "The Veterans Cost of Instruction Program at four area colleges will receive $177,325.00 through grants from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — Office of Education."

The VCI Program assists schools in conducting an outreach program designed to reach and motivate veterans to pursue educational training in institutions of higher learning. This program also provides motivational counseling to veterans who might be considering dropping out of school.

The following institutions will be receiving funds:

Cabrillo College —	$38,451.00
Hartnell Community College —	59,472.00
Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies —	1,250.00
Monterey Peninsula College —	78,152.00

The following institutions will be receiving funds: Cabrillo College — $38,451.00; Hartnell Community College — 59,472.00; Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies — 1,250.00; Monterey Peninsula College — 78,152.00.

"I can think of no better way to recognize the personal sacrifices of our veterans than by providing them with every opportunity to complete a higher education. The VCI Program is one means used to encourage veterans to enter school and complete their education and I support these program objectives," concluded Congressman Talcott.

The State Board of Equalization has amended Regulation 1331.1 of the Use Fuel Tax Regulations, effective July 12, to allow pickup trucks used as passenger automobiles to continue to use diesel fuel without filing a use fuel tax return. Currently 3,697 such vehicles are registered on a non-reporting basis to obtain the filing exemption.

Board Chairman George R. Reilly advises that the regulation change was made necessary by a change in the Motor Vehicle Code regarding registration and weight fees of pickup trucks. Without the change in the Board's regulation, all pickups using diesel fuel would have been required to file tax returns.

To qualify for the exemption from filing, the diesel fuel must be purchased from a vendor in California who collects the tax from the user when delivering the fuel into the fuel tank of the user's automobile. A pickup truck used as an automobile for the private transportation of persons without the owner receiving compensation or profit for the transportation is considered to be a privately operated passenger automobile.

To establish eligibility for exemption from the filing of returns, a certificate of exemption must be filed with the Board. Forms are available at the Board's many field offices located throughout the state.

Lawson Fights Back

A Lawson Support Committee, co-chaired by Mr. Sherman Smith and Mr. Robert Sloan and other distinguished citizens, is organizing in support of Councilman Oscar Lawson. The Committee welcomes and invites citizens to join with them in helping to protect Councilman Lawson from unfounded attacks on his efforts to solve the problems of water, transportation, and beach frontage for the public. The Committee believes that Councilman Lawson is dedicated to the interests of local and open government, for which he was elected.

Councilman Lawson stated the following:

"Let me make it loud and clear to Mayor Dolan that I will not be intimidated by him or harassed by him in my efforts to carry out my responsibilities as councilman. His diversionary and subversive tactics have no place in the present city government or the future I pray."

"I have consulted with my attorney, Mr. Leon E. Panetta, in considering whether there is a basis for legal action against the Mayor for the unfounded and false statements about me. I believe Mayor B.J. Dolan, my political opponent, has made one of the grossest attacks on a public servant that I have ever seen. Let me make clear that I will not be diverted by such unfounded attacks from continuing to serve the public interest."

Dr. Rivers To Speak To CCAC

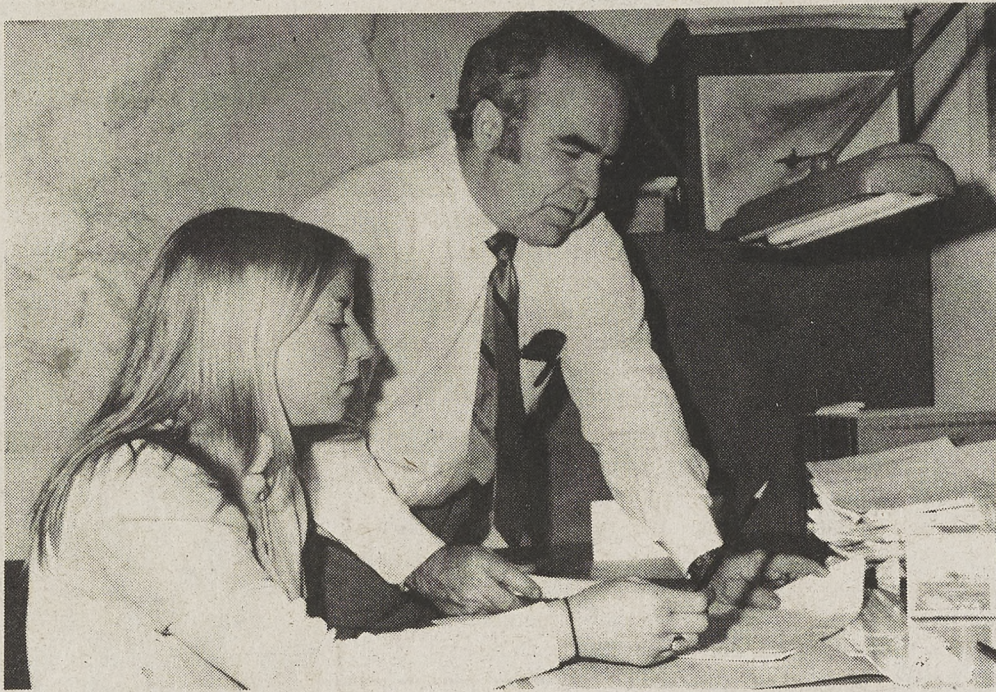

Dr. J. Henry Rivers, Ph.D., will be the guest speaker at the July 13 meeting of the Seaside Community Crime Abatement Committee (CCAC), according to Councilman Stephen E. Ross, Acting Director of CCAC.

Dr. Rivers will discuss, among other things, "The Need For Greater Community Involvement In Crime Prevention and Diversion," in the criminal justice process. A young man, himself, Dr. Rivers is expected to stress the need for youth involvement in solving community problems.

Dr. Rivers is Associate Dean, Student Personnel & Special Services, Monterey Peninsula College. He holds a B.A. degree in Sociology; An M.A. degree in Psychology, and a Ph. D. in Psychology.

The CCAC will also hear a progress report from Acting Director Ross, who will report on the prospects of getting funded for future and expanded operations.

The CCAC meeting will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. in the City Council Chambers, City Hall, 440 Harcourt Avenue, Seaside.

She plots meteorological data and assists various meteorologists assigned to Weather Analysis and Prediction Department. Fair Entries Are Now Being Processed

Thousands of entry blanks are being processed, other workers are busy getting the grounds in top shape, division chairmen are beginning to get their buildings ready to receive the entries — chairman of this phase of the preparations at the Monterey County Fairgrounds in Monterey are entering the final stages.

The Fair is set for July 23-28.

There is still one entry blank deadline ahead— July 14 for entries in the agriculture-horticulture division which reflects the agricultural products of a county that ranks first in the nation in vegetable crops. Richard Nutter, Monterey County agricultural commissioner, is chairman of this phase of the Fair.

Professional entertainment, to be presented free on the outdoor stage during this year's Fair, will feature different acts on different days with something to please all tastes. A flamenco dancing group, featuring Frances Luna, sister of famed dancer

Cruz Luna and a member of his troupe, will perform on the first two days of the Fair, to be followed by Storybook Productions, delightfully costumed performers enacting favorite nursery tales in a way that involves young members of the audience, on Thursday and Friday. On Saturday, four members of the Margo Dancers will present some of the acts which have delighted Las Vegas audiences, and the Sunday performers will be Sunny Day and the Country Kin, a country-western group.

A special feature of this year's Fair, which has "Youth" as its theme, will be the exhibit in Pattee Arena of the work of many of the country's youth organizations, including Camp Fire Girls, YMCA, Boy Scouts of America, Girl Scouts, Seaside and Salinas recreation departments, Fort Ord youth activities, and more.

Also in the arena, class and individual projects of students at a large number of the county's schools will be on display.

Work on the garden displays which are always a colorful part of the Fair will begin this weekend, and floriculture chairman Eve Matusek anticipates an imaginative array of miniature gardens. "Youth" is an especially appropriate theme in her department, because she has encouraged young people to compete with gardens, cut flowers and flower arrangements during all the years of her chairmanship.

The new junior division building — uncompleted but in use at last year's Fair — has been completed now, and will house all of the non-livestock entries of hundreds of 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America young people. 4-H demonstrations are planned for a special stage in Pattee Arena.

Leslie E. Dixon, president of the Monterey County Fair Board of Directors, is enthusiastic about the plans for the 1974 Fair. "We should get an even bigger crowd than last year," he said, "and no one will be disappointed in what they will find here."

Editorial

We here at the Post newspapers group join hundreds of other peninsula citizens in complete wonderment why Supervisor Roger Poyner and his "aide", Seaside Councilman Oscar Lawson have pushed so strongly for location of the county Health and Welfare offices on the "Pit" site.

Especially in view of the fact that the taxpayers will ultimately spend thousands of dollars more than necessary to not only acquire the property in an around the "Pit", but to level it and prepare it for construction.

If our readers will recall, the Redevelopment Agency offered for sale a two acre parcel, COMPLETELY LEVEL, across from Martin Luther King Jr. High School for $120,000. Supervisor Poyner, and an extremely blind Seaside City Council pushed for county purchase of the "Pit" site. Even with the city giving away $55,000 by selling to the county the "Pit" property for half price, it appears that the costs of purchase and preparation of the site will exceed the costs of the Redevelopment Agency's property by many thousands of dollars.

Well, as we stated above, why the push to shaft the taxpayer? Who stands to profit from such waste of taxpayers dollars?

Out of curiosity, the Post checked adjacent property owners near the site, and the only persons name which we recognized was the owner, (as listed on county records) of the property immediately west of the "Pit". His name is Javad Meheen.

It may just be coincidental, but Roger Poyner's law partner is Mike Meheen, the son of Javad Meheen.

Part Of Hunter Liggett To Be Closed

The extreme fire danger in southern Monterey County requires that a portion of the Hunter Liggett Military Reservation be closed to public use effective July 12. The closure reinforces fire prevention measures put into effect earlier by the U.S. Forest Service and the California Division of Forestry.

Portions of the reservation to be closed include the area between the Nacimiento River and the Coast Ridge, the area lying north and west of the Nacimiento-Fergusson and Sulphur Springs Roads, and the Argyle Area which lies to the east of the Jolon-King City Highway. These areas will be clearly posted and will be patrolled by military authorities.

Two roads will be open to public travel through the closed area. They are the Nacimiento Road which traverses the reservation and the national forest to the Coast Road, and Del Venturi Road which gives access to the Indians and Memorial Park in the national forest.

The hunting and fishing programs will continue at Hunter Liggett, although fewer sportsmen can be accommodated in the area not affected by the closure. Anyone desiring specific information regarding restrictions may contact the military authorities at Hunter Liggett.

Book Sale Is July 12, 13

FRIENDS OF THE HARRISON MEMORIAL LIBRARY will hold their 5th Annual USED BOOK SALE on July 12 and 13, at the Carmel Plaza, Carmel-by-the-sea, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

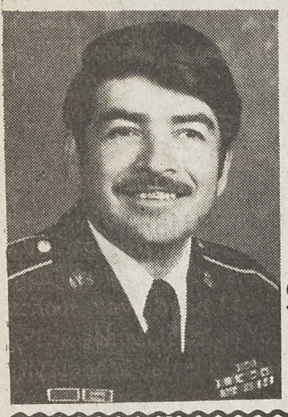

Over 5000 surplus books from the Harrison Memorial Library will be for sale, together with books donated by the public. Mrs. Vicki Anderson Jones, Head Librarian, says the large volume of books for sale is of unusually fine quality. The selection of children's books and cookbooks will far exceed that of past sales, and there are many interesting rare volumes and first editions, including one by Hemingway. A volume of Gulliver's Travels with exquisite Rackham illustrations and a leather-bound edition of Thomas Jefferson's Notes on the State of Virginia will be for sale.

The sale will be staffed by members of Friends of the Harrison Memorial Library, under the direction of Mrs. Hank Adams and Mrs. Janet Gaasch, President of Friends of the Harrison Library. Peninsula Boy Scouts will be on hand to assist patrons in carrying out their book purchases, and coffee will be served both days to add to the enjoyment of leisurely browsing.

Today's Army NEWS By SFC Jose Garcia ARMY RECRUITER

Jobs for women soldiers are expanding rapidly in TODAY'S ARMY and presently more than 430 of nearly 500 career fields are open to females. A few years ago, advertisements that offered training in such diverse areas as field wire, photography, advanced electronics, military police and even truck driving would have attracted only men. Today, the only specialties not open to females are those related to combat. In the past two years the variety of jobs has more than tripled. Many of these positions were previously filled only by men but now are open to either sex.

Changes in today's society have caused remarkable changes in women who look to TODAY'S ARMY for careers. Now they are taking full advantage of the wide selection of job skills offered and are proving themselves extremely capable.

While photography has long been open to both sexes it has not been until recently that women have entered the field in great numbers. Today they are at stations around the world in all forms of photographic missions, everything from studio to aerial. At Army schools aspiring photographers learn fundamentals of furling, processing and printing before going on to duty at photo labs Army-wide.

Another area that women are now venturing into is field communications. At Ft Jackson, South Carolina, women clad in Army fatigues are strapping on equipment-laden belts and spike-climbing to dizzing as telephone pole line repairers and field wirepersons.

Military police is the most popular career field selected by women, of those traditionally held by men. After qualifying, women are required to perform routine searches and inspections; maintain control and discipline; take action in riots, fires and floods; and control vehicular and pedestrian traffic. Generally, military police defend and provide security for vital installations, facilities and equipment in a hostile environment.

Driving staff cars, trucks, and jeeps is an ideal job for those who enjoy physical activity out-of-doors. The basic training program in truck driving teaches people to drive jeeps and trucks under all conditions, besides maintaining their vehicles. After completion of a driving assignment women can qualify to instruct the basic course, where the classes are predominantly men.

Regardless of occupation, all women do the same work as their male colleagues, have the same responsibility, and are assigned to the same organizations.

So, if you girls are interested in learning more about the opportunities that are available for enlistment, give us a call at the ARMY OPPORTUNITIES CENTER, 372-4742 or stop by at 431 Webster St in Monterey. THAT'S IT FOR NOW.

Reagan, Goldwater To Address YAF Conference In SF

Governor Ronald Reagan and Senator Barry Goldwater will be among the speakers at the 1974 annual conference of the Young Americans for Freedom. The conference, to be held in San Francisco Thursday, July 18 through Sunday, July 21, will be highlighted by a banquet honoring Senator Goldwater on the 10th anniversary of his nomination for president.

The gathering will take place in San Francisco's Sheraton Palace Hotel near the Cow Palace where the G.O.P. met in 1964. Over 500 young conservatives and libertarians from across the country will attend the event, which will also feature such conservative leaders as: Bill Richardson, Republican candidate for U.S. Senate; Congressman John Rousselot of California; Congressman Phil Crane of Illinois; and Congressman John Ashbrook of Ohio. Also scheduled to speak are CBS commentator M. Stanton Evans, campaign strategist F. Clifton White, and at least a dozen other widely known conservative figures.

Chairman John R. Lewis of California YAF predicted that "This conference is going to rekindle that spark in the young conservative movement which was so widespread in the Goldwater campaign of 1964. The students will be tremendously inspired with the knowledge they will have gained from the political action workshops. They will return to their campuses and communities and ignite tremendous enthusiasm for such pro-freedom spokesmen as Senatorial candidate Bill Richardson."

Young Americans for Freedom, organized in 1960 at the home of conservative columnist William F. Buckley, Jr., is the state's largest organization for politically active young people. It has over 5,000 members and sixty chapters in California.

C of C Report

by Verlaine Crawford

SHOPLIFTING AND BURLARY SEMINAR JULY 16

Some outrageous statistics regarding shoplifting in Seaside have come to light through a study conducted by the Seaside Police Department. They surveyed 27 stores in Seaside and found that the average monthly contact for the 27 stores amounted to 206 shoplifters (these are people who are caught shoplifting). 57 cases were reported to the police during a 17 month period, and there were only 19 arrests. The monetary loss by the 27 stores averaged $274 per day or $142,000 over a 17 month period. This is a lot of money lost by people in business, who have no way to recoup their losses.

A seminar to learn about business security, shoplifting, how far a homeowner or business person can go in apprehending a criminal, burglary and home protection, etc. will be presented on Tuesday, July 16 at 7 p.m. at Seaside City Hall in the Council Chambers by the Police Department. This will be an opportunity for people to get the latest information and to ask questions on how and what to do about this tremendous drain of resources. Detective Jim Barnes reported that the first offence for a small amount taken as a shoplifter is considered a misdemeanor. The second offence, when the person is caught the second time, it is considered a felony. Therefore, it is important to keep the names and perhaps call the Chamber, so we can make up a list of offenders. Businesses would then know who is 'ripping off' which businesses.

The incredible thing about shoplifting is that many people don't seem to realize that the business person had to pay for the merchandise in the store and that shoplifting is just another word for stealing. Also amazing is that shoplifters often have the money to pay for the merchandise they are stealing. Evidently, they think it is some sort of game. But how would they feel if guests in their home felt the same way and walked out with knick knacks, jewelry, clocks and radios, etc. They probably wouldn't think it was so funny and would call the person by the right name...thief.

There are many excuses that a shoplifter may use to justify his or her actions...prices are too high, politicians are spending lots of our money, businessmen are getting away with our money, but let's face it, any time you take something you haven't paid for, if you haven't exchanged value for value, you are stealing. And the business person has to raise his prices to make up for this tremendous loss in merchandise. TOO bad, such words as honor, pride and dignity are no longer part of our vocabulary. For if they were, there would be little need for a seminar on shoplifting and burglary.

Establishes Its Policy

One of the State's newest planning bodies, the California Manpower Services Council, has established a manpower planning policy for all levels of government to use and be judged by.

The primary objective is to make sure the approximately $200 million in special federal Manpower Revenue Sharing grants to local and state governmental entities in California to be generated by the new federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) for 1974-75 produce the most effective manpower delivery systems possible. This means they must match the manpower needs of California's citizens to the maximum possible extent.

"This is the first time that local elected government leaders will be responsible for operating programs to meet the manpower needs of their constituencies," said Mark Sanders, Executive Secretary of the Council, "and is the first time a statewide manpower planning policy has been established to coordinate manpower planning."

"Getting a handle on as diverse a problem of this magnitude is not easy, to say the least," Sanders added.

"It's a new experience for all of us, especially, for local governments. And here at the state level, we're still in the process of bringing the composition of what was the California Manpower Planning Council - created by the State's Employment Development Act of 1973 - into conformance with the requirements of CETA, the new federal law that has decentralized manpower planning."

"CETA requires us to expand our membership from its present thirteen members to insure that it is as representative as possible of the local government entities responsible for manpower activity within California.

And, of course, that we're doing.

That federal law does not give the State government authority to approve or disapprove local plans. It provides only for the Governor's review of those plans," Sanders said. "Governor Reagan, through this Council, will be reviewing local planning and making his views known to all concerned to make sure the manpower needs and problems of Californians are being considered fully and met as effectively and efficiently as possible."

The newly adopted manpower policy says, "It is the policy position of the State that all manpower funds expended in California shall be subject to a review process, to be conducted by the State Manpower Services Council, for the purpose of insuring that essential planning and coordination of manpower programs is accomplished."

That policy statement also sets forth some specific review criteria including: "The process of developing local manpower plans and programs should involve, to the maximum extent possible, the active participation of the employer community; Manpower assessment procedures must fully identify the variety of local manpower needs and problems of diverse client groups who are unemployed, underemployed, or disadvantaged; Methods must exist for coordination with other local manpower delivery systems to provide comprehensive manpower services for all clients residing in the community; Intake procedures must assure accessibility to all clients in need of manpower services; and, Evaluation methods will provide sufficient feedback to measure the effectiveness and efficiency of manpower programs in meeting their stated goals and objectives."

Bob Wood Reports

Although California has not been designated the murder capital of the United States (Detroit has that dubious honor), murder in California continues to be a problem of prime concern to law enforcement officials and the public alike.

Groups such as the Symbionese Liberation Army, the Zebra killers and the Manson family and the Zodiac killer are fast becoming synonymous with the need for homicide prevention in California.

A report, Homicide in California, is a compilation of statistics for murder in California in 1972. The data indicates that murder is indeed on the rise, and that steps must be taken to eradicate criminal homicides in California.

In 1972, the number of homicides committed in California rose to 1,847, compared with a total of 1,726 for 1971. The 1971 figure is a 20.1 percent increase over the number of homicides committed in 1970.

Some of the conclusions drawn by the report includes that female victims tend to be either quite young or elderly. In the ethnic contest, white victimization increases with age while that of Mexican-Americans and blacks declines. White females are victims more often than members of any other ethnic sex grouping. Murderers tend to attack persons of their own age group. Male offenders choose male victims in three cases out of four, while female murderers choose male victims in about four cases out of five.

The Department of Justice's report gives an overall view to the problem of murder. Although dispassionate in tone, it is a good indicator of the problems facing the California public and law enforcement agencies. Murders can be prevented, but to do so requires the cooperation of every citizen with our law enforcement agencies.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

I am so impressed by the tribulations of our coastal conservation commissioner, Mayor Dolan of Seaside. There is a city council member with a faint link to another another office, an anti-Nixon button at the mayor's pet destruction site, an obstacle to erecting a large, guady sign near the beach and now there is opposition to his ambition to present the people's beach to a motel chain. All that must be very difficult for a public servant who works so hard to bring junior ROTC to a high school, motels to the beaches and organized attacks on a disobedient council member. One could wonder if a bit more frustration would not persuade him to withdraw his helping hand.

Perhaps he and his pals on the regional Coastal Conservation Commission should all take their hands off Seaside for a while. It would serve us right. With the K-Mart construction underway, huge parking lots coming and Roberts Lake partly filled, the motel complex planned for the Seaside beach area should really be donated to some other community.

Sincerely yours,
Stephanie Wijsen
